8.	Fabrication of Display Mounts for Museum Artefacts	Phil Jell

Following the formal business of the AGM, Phil Jell has kindly agreed to give a talk about his work in mount making at the British Museum with a focus on ceramic and glass objects. Phil works at the British Museum as an Assistant Collections Manager in the Loans and Display team. He specialises in mountmaking for exhibitions and touring loans. Phil gives training sessions in mountmaking and the use of workshop machinery as part of the in-house training programme. His presentation will focus on the fabrication of display mounts for museum artefacts, and will look specifically at what kinds of considerations have to be taken into account for ceramic and glass objects.
